The PaSDC Fall Lecture Series has Begun

MIDDLETOWN, Pa— Mark your calendar! The second lecture in the Pennsylvania State Data Center's Fall Lecture Series is coming soon. This lecture features David Eggebeen, Ph.D. of PennState University who will present some demographic information on children living in households headed by single fathers.

The third and final lecture of the series will be given by Leif Jensen, Ph.D. also of PennState University. Dr. Jensen will discuss the diverse demographics of immigrants and their children.

Additional information on the lectures may be found on the PaSDC web site at URL: PaSDC.hbg.psu.edu under Products and Services.

All PaSDC lectures are free and open to the public. Lectures take place from 12:00 noon until 1:00 p.m. at the PennState Downtown Center at 234 North Third Street, Harrisburg, across from the Main Capitol Building. To ensure adequate seating, please pre-register by phoning (717)948-6677 or by e-mailing PaSDC-Reserve@psu.edu.
